Let's Start!

Let's have some friends over for a party!

Learning Outcome

Describe complicated or unusual events in the past through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about injuries and accidents.
- I can make suggestions and offers of help.
- I can discuss how to deal with problems.

Ask your partner:

- What could happen to make a party a real flop or disappointment?
- What can you do to save a party when that happens?

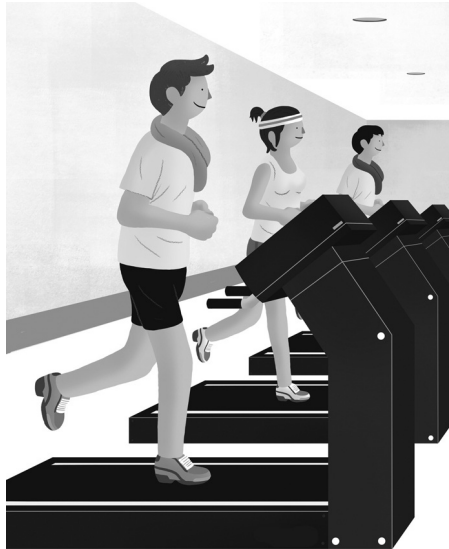

Let's Explore!

Needless to say*, she ended up in the hospital!

* "Needless to say" means of course.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

So here's what happened yesterday! Ms. Ryan has been planning this dinner for some friends. One of them fancies herself a chef. Well it seems this chef friend was working out at the gym. She didn't warm up, so she strained a muscle in her leg. Then she went on the crosstrainer to keep at it instead of stopping and banged her knee. Her gym trainer played up to her, telling her she could work through the pain.

So, she's on the treadmill, when she trips, gets thrown off, hits the wall, breaks her arm and passes out! Needless to say, she ended up in the hospital! Ms. Ryan was shouting, "Oh my party!"

I'm all - This can be solved easily. I could make a few calls. Then everything would be straightened out. I would suggest a venue I know of. Your party can easily be saved! I'd recommend you make up a list of guests to contact. Someone could be asked to call them. It would also be a good idea to rent a couple of limos to pick them up. That way they could be driven to and from the venue.

She's all - Could you recommend a limo service too?

I'm all - Consider it done.

So I've booked 25 for Spicy Rice Night!

Learning Points

Modal Verbs in the Passive Voice

You use modal verbs to add meaning to other verbs. They come before the dictionary form (Infinitive without 'to') of the main verb. Modal verbs can add meaning connected with certainty or obligation.

You can use modal verbs in the passive voice.

You use the passive voice when you want to focus on the receiver of the action, rather than the 'doer' of the action.

Here is the structure of a passive sentence:

Subject + to be + past participle

For example:

This is solved easily.

You can add a modal verb before the to be.

Subject + modal + to be + past participle

For example:

This can be solved easily.

Here the sentence now has an additional meaning of possibility, thanks to the modal can.

Examples:

- This can be solved easily.
- Then everything would be straightened out.
- Your party can easily be saved!
- Someone could be asked to call them.
- That way they could be driven to and from the venue.

Learning Points

Inseparable Phrasal Verbs

You can use inseparable phrasal verbs to describe actions that can lead to injuries or accidents.

Usually the accident or injury happens because the person did not do something to ensure that it did not happen.

For example:

She didn't warm up, so she strained a muscle in her leg.

Phrasal Verb	Meaning
warm up	do stretches and gentle exercises to get your muscles ready to work out
keep at	continue doing
play up to	flatter
work through	continue, ignoring the problem
end up	finish

Examples:

- Her gym trainer played up to her.
- She told her she could work through the pain.
- Needless to say, she ended up in the hospital!
