

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Have you ever been interviewed?

Learning Outcome

Describe complicated or unusual events in the past through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about going out and socializing.
- I can ask for clarifications.
- I can explain my opinion.

Ask your partner:

- How often do you listen to or read interviews?
- What type of interviews interest you the most? Why?

Let's Explore!

Vanessa thinks that a Spicy Rice Night will liven up the grey days.

* In winter in North America, the days are often "grey" because it's cloudy, rainy or snowy.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Interviewer: Hello everyone. This morning I'm interviewing Vanessa, the manager at Bistro 88. Vanessa, tell me about your upcoming event.
- Vanessa: We're bringing on Spicy Rice Night next weekend, starting at 5:00 on Saturday.
- Interviewer: How do you know what food to plan for the menu?
- Vanessa: I talk to our customers regularly. Honestly, they all practically live on spicy food!
- Interviewer: Can you tell me why you decided to do it now?
- Vanessa: As I see it, the colder, grey season is bearing down upon us. To my mind, coming up with distinctive food and having a winter fete livens things up.
- Interviewer: You're saying what you want is to give them a taste of summer?
- Vanessa: Exactly. As far as I'm concerned, we have settled on the perfect menu for that!
- Interviewer: How did you decide what to serve?
- Vanessa: To be frank, I went through dozens of cookbooks.
- Interviewer: So that's where you get the recipes - from cookbooks?
- Vanessa: No, but that's where I started. It's like shopping and coming across those special pieces that make a very personal look.
- Interviewer: So, you looked at recipes to inspire your own?
- Vanessa: Yes. I wanted to pass on that feeling of sunny afternoons at the beach or relaxing in crowded outdoor cafes.
- Interviewer: Well, it looks like I'll be coming round to join in on the fun!

Let's Practice!

Is she giving an opinion or asking for a clarification?

Instructions: Read the dialogue again. Read each question and select the correct answer.

1. How does Vanessa liven up the event?
 - a. By having customers select their favorite menus
 - b. By providing a spicy menu and a special winter celebration
 - c. By reading cooking books
2. How did she come up with the idea of spicy food?
 - a. She discovered that customers loved it
 - b. She found it on the Internet
 - c. A friend told her about it
3. What did she have to go through to decide the perfect menu?
 - a. She had to cook a lot of recipes
 - b. She attended many fetes
 - c. She had to read many cookbooks

Let's Practice!

Is she giving an opinion or asking for a clarification?

Instructions: Classify the words into the correct category.

1. Can you tell me why you decided to do it now?
2. Can you tell me what inspired you for the recipes?
3. How did you know what food to prepare?
4. To my mind, coming up with special food livens things up. Honestly, they live on spicy food!
5. In my opinion, we have selected the perfect menu.

Clarification

Opinion

Extension Activity

Phrasal verb learning circle.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- In pairs, brainstorm six phrasal verbs you think your classmates will not know.
- Research the phrasal verbs definitions, explanations, structures and popularity.
- Break the pairs up and form small groups.
- Teach the group your phrasal verbs while group members take notes.
- After, the group votes on the best phrasal verb they learned and why.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I research phrasal verbs.

☐ ☐

I understand their meanings and their structures.

☐ ☐

I teach phrasal verbs in a clear and concise manner.

☐ ☐

I listen for gist and for detail to my group members' phrasal verbs.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to bring on (verb): to make something happen
e.g. We're bringing on Spicy Rice Night next weekend.
- upcoming (adjective): occurring soon
e.g. Vanessa, tell me about your upcoming event.
- to live on (verb): to support oneself
e.g. Honestly, they all practically live on spicy food!
- fete (noun): a festival or feast
e.g. To my mind, coming up with distinctive food and having a winter fete brightens things up.
- to bear down (verb): to exert pressure; to loom e.g. As I see it, the colder, grey season is bearing down on us.
- to liven up (verb): to stimulate; to energize
e.g. To my mind, coming up with distinctive food and having a winter fete liven things up.
- to settle on (verb): to opt for something e.g. As far as I'm concerned, we have settled on the perfect menu for that!
- to come round (verb): to visit; to stop in e.g. Well, it looks like I'll be coming round to participate in the fun!
- to join in (verb): to participate
e.g. I am eager to join in on the activities.
- to inspire (verb): to stimulate or motivate
e.g. So, you looked at recipes to inspire your own?

Learning Points

Inseparable Phrasal Verbs

You can use some inseparable phrasal verbs when you give opinions to others when you talk about social activities.

You use phrasal verbs when you want to be less formal. They are very common in spoken English.

Inseparable phrasal verbs cannot be separated. This means that you cannot put a noun between the verb and particle (preposition) as you can do with separable phrasal verbs.

Example: Separable phrasal verb to look up

Can you look up that word?

Can you look that word up?

Can you look it up?

Example: Inseparable phrasal verb to go through

I went through a dozen cook books.

Phrasal Verb	Meaning
bring on	cause; make happen
live on	eat all the time
bear down	push; move quickly toward
come up with	produce; get an idea
settle on	decide on
go through	look from beginning to end
come across	find by accident
pass on	convey; communicate
come round	visit
join in	participate

Examples:

Learning Points

- We're bringing on Spicy Rice Night next weekend.
- It's like shopping and coming across those special pieces.
- I wanted to pass on that feeling of sunny afternoons at the beach or relaxing in crowded outdoor cafes.
- Honestly, they all practically live off of spicy food!
- As far as I'm concerned, we have settled on the perfect menu for that!
- To my mind, coming up with distinctive food is good business.
- To be frank, I went through dozens of cookbooks.

Asking for Clarification

You ask for clarification when you want more details on what the other person is talking about.

You ask for clarification when it is not clear what the other person is referring to. You ask the other person to be more specific by giving you more information.

You can use a question at the beginning of a statement or question to ask for clarification like: Don't you think it sounds a bit too intense?

Questions within sentences are called embedded questions.

Example:

Simple question: What are you going to do after dinner?

Embedded question: Do you know what you're going to do after dinner?

Look at the chart below for an explanation on how to make embedded questions.

Main Question	Embedded Question
Do you know ...	what/where/when/who/ ... ?
Do you remember ...	what/where/when/who/ ... ?
Can you tell me ...	what/where/when/who/ ... ?
Could you tell me ...	what/where/when/who/ ... ?

You can also use a direct question.

Example: Is that a hint?

Direct questions go straight to the point. Sometimes they are used to be light-hearted or to be funny.

Learning Points

Peter: I'm really hungry now!

Sally: You mean there are times when you're not?

Examples:

- How did you know what food to plan for the menu?
- Can you tell me why you decided to do it now?
- You're saying what you want is to give them a taste of summer?
- So that's where you got the recipes - from cookbooks?
- So, you looked at recipes to inspire your own?

